

Commentary from Henry and Scott.

A COMMENTARY UPON THE HOLY BIBLE, FROM HENRY AND SCOTT.

With Occasional Observations and Notes from other Writers.

THE object of this Work is to provide a COMMENTARY ON THE HOLY SCRIPTURES, compact in size, and moderate in price, which may be useful to those whose opportunities for reading, or whose means of purchasing, render such a publication desirable; while the contents are suited for christians of every station, rank, and denomination.

The valuable Commentaries of Henry and Scott have principally supplied the materials for the present Publication. The most important observations of those excellent Divines are condensed and blended together, so as to form a continuous Exposition. The editions used, are Henry's Exposition, edited by Burder and Hughes; and the first edition of Scott's Commentary. Extracts from other authors have been inserted, where they appeared needful; also explanatory notes upon various passages have been added, many of which are designed to meet the misrepresentations of infidels. The authors are pointed out from whom the additional paragraphs are taken, but not the titles of their different works, as the present compilation is to be considered only as having reference to the passages extracted.

This Work will be found suitable for public or private use, and especially convenient for the traveller, the sunday school teacher, and the visitor of the sick. The comment is divided into portions adapted for family reading; the whole of the paragraphs may be read, or some of them selected, as circumstances render desirable, and, when consulted in the closet, few texts will be found unnoticed.

The Committee of the RELIGIOUS TRACT SOCIETY trust that this Commentary will be acceptable to the christian public, and that it will prove extensively useful. They consider it superfluous to urge the importance of such a Work. They earnestly desire to encourage diligent searching of the Scriptures; and believe that the present publication will stimulate the reader to examine the sacred writings with increased attention, while it enables him to do so with greater profit. They trust that the plan has been formed, and the work carried on under that Divine guidance which alone can make any instrument avail to the glory of God, and the good of immortal souls.

The COMMENTARY FROM HENRY AND SCOTT is printed upon good paper, with a clear type. It may be used with any Bible, and is illustrated with maps.

The first volume containing from Genesis to Deuteronomy, the second containing from Joshua to Esther, the third from Job to Solomon's Song, and the fourth from Isaiah to Malachi, are now published; price 5s. each, neatly bound in cloth, and lettered, or 7s. well bound in calf. Also the fifth volume containing the Gospels and the Acts of the Apostles; price 6s. in cloth, or 8s. in calf. This volume contains an extra number of pages, and four well-executed maps and plans, engraved on steel.

The whole is to be comprised in Six Volumes, and the remaining portion will appear as speedily as is consistent with the care and attention required in preparing the Work. Each portion forms a distinct publication complete in itself; and it is intended that any part may be purchased separately, at all times.

To accommodate the purchasers of this Work, the Holy Bible complete, of the Oxford Ruby octavo edition, with the marginal readings and references of the authorized version, may be had, uniform in size and binding with the Commentary; price 10s. cloth boards, or 12s. 6d. bound in calf.
